Defence Tax to Harm Beer Industry, Breweries Claim

TEL AVIV, Tuesday.—The proposed Defence Tax on beer is likely to have harmful economic repercussions on the beer industry, the breweries claim. The tax is expected to be levied at a rate of 10 per cent on the price of beer, which would result in a 10 per cent increase in the price of beer to the consumer.

The cause of this plight is that the price of beer is controlled and has not risen for a long time, while the cost of production has increased. The breweries claim that the tax will result in a 10 per cent increase in the price of beer, which would result in a 10 per cent increase in the price of beer to the consumer.

Safad Protests Holiday Ban

Jerusalem Post Reporter

SAFAD, Tuesday. — The city's councilors, headed by Mayor A. Hachon, have decided to join the town's trade union in protesting against the cancelling of the Lag Ba'Omer festivities at Meron.

On Monday, the Mayor addressed a demonstration. All shops were closed between 3 p.m. and 4 p.m.

Mr. Rafael Abu from whose home the Torah Scroll is carried each year to Meron in a ceremonial procession, refused to accept the Ministry for Religious Affairs' prize awarded to him this year, in protest against the cancellation of the ceremony. The prize is considered a symbol of the Zohar, the Chabbatist classic.

In a communication to the press, the Ministry for Religious Affairs has explained and justified its position in the matter. It pointed out that it was the police, and not the Ministry, which blocked the roads to Meron, that the Ministry had intervened for all those who had especially strong religious reasons for making the pilgrimage to Meron, and that all those who had applied for permits had received them.

The second point made by the Ministry was that the Safad and Tiberias authorities had come to consult the Ministry about the police ban only on April 22, thus leaving almost no time to do something about the problem.

The Ministry had suggested that the date for the pilgrimage be moved a day in order not to interfere with the Sabbath, but this suggestion was turned down, the Ministry claimed. Then it suggested that celebrations be held in Safad, but this was also not followed up by the Safad authorities.

The Ministry insisted that it had no quarrel with either the Abu family, from whose house the Torah scroll is taken to Meron, nor with the Safad authorities, but it did admit that it was opposed to the "behaviour" of those who had been seen as owners of the Meron "concession."

The Ministry also reminded the Safad authorities that Lag Ba'Omer falls on a Saturday next year, and that they should make preparations for this anomaly now, while there is ample time to do so.

Congress Agrees Zionism's Vitality Lost

By ARYAH RUBINSTEIN, Jerusalem Post Reporter

There was unanimous agreement at Monday morning's session of the 24th Zionist Congress that the Zionist movement has lost its vitality. But there was considerable difference of opinion on what was needed to restore the old-time idealism.

One of the speakers, Mr. Isaac Rittor (Bud, Israel), no doubt expressed the view of many of his fellow-delegates and of the general public when he complained that "something is missing" at the Congress.

A number of delegates insisted that the Zionist movement must be increasingly concerned with the problems of Jews in the Diaspora, such as assimilation and anti-Semitism.

Today the State is no longer the end of the Zionist movement, but rather the means to a higher end — the assimilation of Jews in the Diaspora. Mr. Judith G. Epstein (Confederation, U.S.) declared. Although she urged the movement to help Jews in the Diaspora, she disagreed with the "black picture" of American Jewry drawn by Dr. Nahum Goldmann the night before.

Mr. Baruch Zuckerman (Member of Executive, Bud, U.S.) said that the Zionist movement should devote itself solely to the aim of encouraging more and more Jews to settle in Israel. He proposed the formation of an all-Jewish organization, of which the Zionist movement would form a part, to carry on the job of supporting the State of Israel.

Congress Meets In Committee Today

Jerusalem Post Reporter

Delegates to the Zionist Congress will meet in committee this morning and afternoon.

A plenary session will be held tomorrow. On Friday morning and Saturday night, reports will be made to the plenary by the committees.

The three final sessions will be held on Sunday. A garden party for all delegates to the 24th Zionist Congress is being held from 4 to 6 p.m. today in the Rose Garden in Talbich by the Jerusalem Municipality.

Mr. Gershon Agmon will present each delegate with a scroll in honor of Congress Day, which falls tomorrow.

out that England's Zionist Federation included all parties, except Mirshai, and that British Jewry wished this status quo to remain.

While admitting that party politics in the Diaspora were a major problem, Mr. Sidney Silverman (Mamam, England) did not see how a territorial system could be easily implemented. He suggested that delegates might perhaps need more time than that allotted for the Congress to consider Dr. Goldmann's proposals.

Education Crucial As to the future of world Jewry, Mr. Ben-Zvi, Chairman of the Executive, said that the Jewish people, on educating the young people of the Diaspora to Judaism. Confederation For Abolishing Shekel

Jerusalem Post Reporter

The World Confederation of Jewish Students, a constituent party of the World Zionist Congress, has voted unanimously to replace the shekel as a basis for electing delegates to the Zionist Congress.

The Confederation is also considering proposals on the merging of the Keren Hayesod and Jewish National Fund. One of them is that the two bodies be consolidated in Israel and autonomous abroad.

Other items under consideration by the Confederation's Steering Committee are the enlargement of the Zionist General Council, territorial federation, and the inclusion of the Haganah in the Jewish Agency Executive.

It is understood that the Haganah has already decided to oppose the last point.

Att'y-General Wants Press Council

Jerusalem Post Reporter

TEL AVIV, Tuesday. — In order to keep its integrity, the press must establish its own measures of control, Mr. Haim Cohen, the Attorney General, told newspaper editors at luncheon today.

Mr. Cohen said that a Press Council be created on lines similar to that of the Medical Council, on which representatives of the profession sit with Government representatives.

Such a council would be responsible for the maintenance of professional ethics, Mr. Cohen said.

At the meeting of the Old and Margarine Division of the food industry, the employers claimed that prices were controlled by the government, and the industry was working on the fringes of a loss.

Another meeting was called for Sunday. Union claims were also rejected at a meeting of the Chocolate Division which is to meet again on Friday.

An exception to yesterday's meetings was one between the Printers Union and employers on claims for blockades. The employers declared their willingness to increase wages, but not to the extent demanded. Another meeting was fixed for Friday.

There have been no developments since Sunday's breakdown of negotiations between the most workers and the Manufacturers Association.

HAIFA, Tuesday. — A new labour agreement for 1956, covering 1,000 employees of local hotels and restaurants, was signed by the Labour Council and the Hotel Owners Association on Sunday.

Women employees will get a wage rise of 20 per cent; waiters a rise of 15 per cent; and clerks, cooks and other employees a rise of 10 per cent. Social benefits are also covered by the agreement.

RECORD DAY AT HAIFA INDUSTRIAL SHOW HAIFA, Tuesday. — The Industrial Exhibition held at the Haifa Exhibition Hall today with well over 20,000 visitors passing through the exhibition grounds.

Queues formed at the ticket offices from the morning hours.

Mr. Kadish Loeb, Minister of Agriculture, was among the visitors. After viewing the exhibits for some hours, he expressed his great interest in what he had seen, and his surprise at the great range of Israeli-made products on show.

As a farmer, he was proud that agriculture was aiding industry by growing industrial crops.

Among the 5,000 one-day volunteers was Mr. Zelman Arnan, Minister of Education. A group of 37 Hebrew University students, who are repeating the week during security work, said they normally worked "nine hours a day, but today, on the occasion of May 1, we are only going to work eight hours."

Explanations of the work of the Border Force were given to the President at one stop at which Mr. Ben-Zvi began a lively and informal conversation with a police officer.

At the first settlement, the Border Force police, under the command of Mr. Ben-Zvi, entered into conversation with the settlers, showing particular interest in the conditions of work and livelihood.

At a second stop, where Jerusalem District Police were working, the party was received by schoolchildren singing "Land of Milk and Honey." At this time, the President shed his coat and could be more comfortable in his shirt-sleeves because of the heat.

At another village, Mrs. Ben-Zvi was greeted warmly by the Mayor, Mr. Finkas, and the Labour Council members. The parade ended with a procession of vehicles returning from the settlements.

The May Day parade through the town's main streets, headed by the Mayor, Mr. Finkas, and the Labour Council members, was a success.

Tired Danny Koye Leaves

By PAUL KOHN, Jerusalem Post Reporter

TEL AVIV, Tuesday. — Tired but cheerful, Danny Koye left for Greece by Swissair early this morning after a tempestuous four-and-a-half days in the country. Though he was up until after midnight last night addressing a press conference, he was on his feet again soon after 5 a.m. today.

"For four nights, I have not slept due to the excitement of being in Israel. I have been so stimulated and completely jaded up," Danny Koye said. Asked about his outstanding impression, Mr. Koye said it was nothing tangible that he could lay his finger on, but "something I feel inside me." He admired the "courageous and dignified attitude of everyone here," the like of which he had seen nowhere else.

Danny Koye said he had been very touched by a letter he had received from children at Ein Giv, which stated: "Bring us your daughter Dina, and we will make her feel at home here." He promised that he would bring her and his wife, "very, very soon."

He said he could not imagine that Egypt would bar him from performing for UNICEF in that country. "It would be against the whole spirit of UNICEF," he remarked. However, the trip there was cancelled, apparently due to danger from Egyptian extremists.

No Figures Available No figures on how much money was raised for UNICEF were available last night, but Danny Koye said it is far more important that people have an understanding of what UNICEF is.

Last night's performance brought nearly 2,000 persons into the garden of the Z.O.A. House, and almost as many on the roofs and balconies around. Many mounted police controlled the large crowds well.

The performance started with lengthy speeches of greeting. The speakers were Danny Koye, the Mayor of Tel Aviv, Mr. Chaim Weizmann, the Chief of Staff, the Director-General of the Ministry of Education and Members of the Knesset.

Earlier in the day, Danny Koye gave a performance to crippled children at the Asaf Harofe Hospital in Tel Aviv. A reception for him was given at the home of the U.S. Chargé d'Affaires and Mrs. I. White in Ramat Gan.

The star and his party stayed at the Ramat Aviv Hotel. Here Mr. Koye wrote in the Visitors Book "Shalom. I loved it and leave with regret," and signed his name in both Hebrew and English.

This morning at Lydda Airport, the UNICEF ambassador was seen off by Mr. M. De Shalit of the Prime Minister's Office, Mrs. Z. Harman, UNICEF Chief Representative in Israel, Dr. C. Hart Schaff, U.N. Technical Assistance Chief in Israel, Mr. J. Bennett, U.S. Embassy Information Officer, and Mr. M. Pearlman. Several dozen other persons also waved the comedian and Mr. Sam Frajer, his pianist, "Bon Voyage."

Mr. Kadish Loeb, Minister of Agriculture, was among the visitors. After viewing the exhibits for some hours, he expressed his great interest in what he had seen, and his surprise at the great range of Israeli-made products on show.
